

Rewarding Outstanding Media Personnel

Award for Excellence in Engineering Journalism (Applications close on 28th June, 2013.)

Media personnel will vie alongside Engineers for this year's Engineering Excellence Awards- 2013 presented by the Institution of Engineers, Sri Lanka (IESL).

Journalists and producers from national newspapers, radio and television stations are to be honoured for outstanding articles / programmes that enhance awareness on role and impact of engineers in the improvement of standard of living of the people.

Printed and electronic news media, are the most effective medium for creation of such awareness and molding of public opinion on engineering issues whether it is supply of utilities for their day to day sustenance or larger infrastructures needs in the transport and telecommunication sector, etc.

Through this award the Institution of Engineers, Sri Lanka (IESL), the premier body for the engineering profession in the country, hopes to encourage continued balanced coverage of engineering issues which enhances awareness on the subject and overall awareness on the role engineers play for the upkeep and improvement of living standards of the society.

Articles / programmes that appeared between 1st January 2012 and 31st December, 2012 are eligible for the award.
